ABOUT THE J4J SAFE CELL PROGRAM

CETA, Clinic to End Tech Abuse, recognizes the risk that family cell phone plans pose for abuse victims and survivors, and the difficulty to get out of those plans when fleeing abuse. It did a great service by calling on Congress to create a law allowing them to leave their family plans. [<https://tech.cornell.edu/news/tech-privacy-and-anti-abuse-groups-call-on-congress-to-help-abuse-survivors-leave-family-phone-plans/>]. But once they leave their family cell phone plans, they're going to need a cell phone of their own, especially if they are fleeing abuse.

This is why The Justice For Jenny Foundation, Inc. wants to give NEW, no-contract cellphones with prepaid airtime cards to abuse survivors for FREE. We started this new initiative for 2021 under the WE CAN STOP DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PROJECT to further our mission of domestic violence awareness and prevention. We don't maintain phones in inventory, but we hope to expand the program on a need basis. At the moment we are providing phones based on applications.

Here's what we envision for this:

- We would like to work with the local police departments to ensure that cell phones get to those in immediate need, such as, survivors fleeing abuse or contacting the police for help.
- We want to expand the program to provide cell phones to survivors living in local domestic violence shelters.
- We are starting this program locally in Jersey City, NJ but hope to one day expand it to other cities in New Jersey.
- We have aspirations to make this a national program.

Phone Specifications:

We are currently providing the Alcatel MYFLIP Tracfone with a 60-minute prepaid airtime card. It has calling, texting, and 4-G internet access. Phones and providers are subject to change based on program advancement and collaborative efforts.
